

LOADED 4 LEADERSHIP
Junior Red Angus Conference

New for you! The Loaded 4 Leadership (L4L) junior conference will focus on providing juniors with skills and information to address the public with a positive message about the beef industry and agriculture. Staff from the National Cattlemen's Beef Association will train attendees in the Master of Beef Advocacy program. After registering for L4L, your e-mail address will be given to NCBA, you will receive an e-mail invitation and then be expected to complete a 6 lesson beef industry course before attending to the conference. You may work on the lessons at your own pace but must finish before January 6. Staff from Colorado State University Extension Service and Meyer Natural Angus will discuss livestock ethics, humane certification and how consumers are impacting beef production. Red Angus breeders on the schedule will provide motivation, inspiration and direction for your role as a leader in the industry, taking an active part in agriculture and being ready to deliver your message and what you learn during L4L when you go back to daily life. The JRA Board will coordinate some fun ice breakers and leadership-oriented workshops throughout the two day program.

MAKE PLANS TO ATTEND THE FIRST RED ANGUS JUNIOR LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE!

INDIANA JUNIOR RED ANGUS OPPORTUNITIES!!

Don't forget junior activities available in Indiana!

The 2010 Indiana Hoosier Beef Congress is on the horizon! There is a junior Red Angus Show in the Beef Congress. The entire event runs from Dec. 2 - 5th. There are team fitting contests, showmanship classes, poster and photography contests, a trade show, judging contests, the show, and sales. If any junior Red Angus member is interested in consigning an animal in the Red Angus sale, please contact Beth Riggins directly or visit the Indiana Red Angus Association website at: www.indianaredangus.com. As you see, there are lots of activities for junior beef enthusiasts! For more information and entry forms, go to: <http://www.hoosierbeefcongress.com/> or www.indianaredangus.com.

For more information on the Indiana Junior Red Angus Association, please contact the state advisor, Beth Riggins: bethriggins@hotmail.com

The Northern International Livestock Exposition (N.I.L.E.) hosted the Red Angus junior and open shows on October 12 in Billings, Montana. Dirk Johnston, Bancroft, ID, judged the junior show.

The Montana Red Angus juniors held their annual meeting on Tuesday. New MJRAA officers were elected and include: Abbi Bogges as president and Alyssa Hahn-Pierce as Ambassador. Tuesday evening, the juniors enjoyed a pizza and swimming party. Some junior members also assisted in making a radio commercial while at the N.I.L.E.

RED ANGUS JUNIORS BUSY IN RENO

Red Angus juniors from the west coast and surrounding states gathered in Reno, Nevada, for the Red Western Classic Show and the Bet On Red Sale the first weekend in November. Junior member from Oregon, Jeremy Lee, made and donated chaps that were auctioned off during the Red Angus banquet. The proceeds from the auction go to the North West juniors' fund. Dale Herboldt, 3 Rafters Ranch, purchased the chaps. Shana Morcom, JRA Public Relations Director, spoke at the banquet about what is going on with the JRA.
